

Fluid (consisting of water, sand and chemicals) is then blasted into the earth to create more fractures